No man explice have known that better than Mr. Till den, but the truth is that he was not accussional to drawing up wills. There is no question at this error in the light of repeated anterests. In the excess of this caution before point in the startal eleep he left his might catch sp, and any than lawyer is at liberty to enter and life his room at his leasure.

The fatal waterest in the will is in the thirty-shi clane. Mr. Tilden there requests his execution to use his money "to establish a free library and to promote such scientific and educational chiefs as they may particularly specify." He should have specified the objects and the sums of money to be devoted to them bimself.

Again, Mr. Tilden donates money to an institution provised "it shall be incorporated in a least and manner satisfactory to my executors." It loads as though any smart lawyer might get good boding for a contest on this clause and mats things right lively for the executors.

Further on Mr. Tilden relegates to his executions he authority to "organize the said corporation, designate the first trustees thereof, and to centre to or apply to the use of the same the instrument, or as much thereof as they may seem expedient." But to return to Sherman. When the terrible and august reaction came, and the government and half the country in one harsh burst of passion forgot all that Sherman had done, and pronounced him a trailor, Grant was as deeply wounded almost as sherman. I met him with this news in North Carolina, he was returning from Sherman's headquarters after the second capitulation of Johnson. He knew, for he had heard them say what the president and Stanton thought of Sherman's terms, and he disapproved show terms as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as fully and resolutely as they but he had not dreamed that these cruel centeries as the minute of the world, he face that he would be made and the content of the world, he face that he would be made and the content of the world, he face that he would be made and the content of the made and the cont

Senator Y-les was a man of shining qualities, Senator Yates was a man or sniming quantues, full of promise, a universal favorite. He was the war governor of libnois, and performed unexampled labors in marshalling her soldiers for the great civil strike. He was a man of energy and county where. and grand record. Honored and leved by all loyal hearts, he was warmly we comed to the senate, where he early achieved high place senate, where he early achieved high places among the generous gentlemen and cloquist debators of that body. But also like many another grand man in the senate and house, his star fell like Limiter from henson. His exceedingly agreeable manners and high agreeable manners and high quittee of soul made him everywhere a welcome guest. But his house was not builded upon a rock, and the waves of uplitted excitement and sacial different and sacial diff the waves of political excitement and social di sipation beat upon it, and it fell. Like in my mother public man of hi d ant promise—a Stul among his fellows—he fell a victor to the insil nous blandschments of the somel bow. CHRIST AND THE CIVIL LAW

The sorrowful inquiry whether we shall al were have to hang murderers is very like our my wonderment whether there will always plex the soul of every nature that is at once thoughful and compassionate. In both cases we see little ground for hope, for poverty, starrace, red any sensible miligation of its vast misery is scarcely visible even to the telescopic vision of the most sanguine philanthropist, while as long as men commit murder it is quite while as long as men commit murder it is quite likely they will be legally put to death. The humane th nicer who hates to hang men and yet consents to the gallows, feels that the great est prison walls can be plerced by a pardon, so that the condemned do not leave all hope behind when they receive a life sentence, and even if we assume that life imprisonment was certain not to be remitted it is quite probable that it would deter fewer cutthroats from the bloody work inspired by subridled passions than the death penulty. Subsequence who recorded he death penulty Shakespeare, who accurate the ceast pennity Smazespeare, who accurate by read the human heart, spoke the voice of this deep of untire when he makes (landle say. The wearlest and most loathed worldly life. That age ache pennity imprisonment. Can lay on nature is a pariello.

To what we fear of dea h.

The mass of men who have the lurking devil of homicide in their hearts are smedhing better restrained by this vulgar dread of death and love of life than they would be by the mere contemplation of the chance of a perpetual oss of lifeth in this world. We cannot be upposed to be u finally to cruel deet, would handly by his per sonal example have reented highway robbery by tand my over the command to the law but in practice, until we have different materia to deal with the foes of capital punishment would do well to remember that I caus was a sam gal thather one there was not a way some as tacher one there was root a way judge or a true and the awatu no more afford to ad these an unfer in the time of a Christian phil lighting part it as it can affort to rebuke the jud-te size of a finwed by telling her to go and sin no more or to enact a civil code cast in the stant of Jesus and expect to enforce it. fdl LRI SISTLY it il recent annual meeting of the Law N noval association of Sarut ga, a report wis made on the subject of the july system in which among other things it was well said hat "no jers n should be put upon the jurylist who is not known to be n person of probity, intelligence and good repute. It should be borne in mind that a juror is in a very important sense a judge, though a temporary one, and something the the care re juried in the selection of per manent judges should be required in the select tion of jurors. The judge's duty in the statement of facts to the jury is had down, with the reservation that this body should be also informed that it is not bound by his opinion ex-cept as to matters of law. Yet 1 is held that the right of a court to set aside a verdict on the evidence alone should not be impaired, and even that "the practice of sut mitting to juriesspecial interrogatories upon the material or controlling facts in issue, and of disregarding their general verdict when inconsistent with their answers to such interrogatories ought to be extended

This is all well enough as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough. If we are to retain the jury system, two radical reforms are necessary to public justice. First, the jury should be made clearly to understand that they are not judges of the law and that if they render a ver-dict in clear contempt of the law, that verdict will be invariably set aside and secondly the ridiculous provision that a man who has formed and expressed an opinion is meligible for jury duty should be no longer regarded by the courts. It does nothing toward securing a competent jury, it only ensures the choice of the initiass, the illiterate, and therefore the incompetent for the jury box. It is the opportunity of escape and freely expressed an opinion to escape duty, and such men are very sure to deliberately and designedly express an opinion for the very pur-pose of escaping pury service. The result in large towns and cities is that foolish and feeble juries are drawn for civil cases of large com-mercial complexity and consequence. To iliustrate, we heard a juror in a very amportant civil case, involving the question of the construction of certain bank paper, ask his barber what was nicent by "without recourse". That jury dis-egreed, as might have been expected from its consistence. constituents

Of course in the early settlement of the coun try jury du y was regarded as a sort of civi-benot and compliment, and the pillars of the containing mercanic settlement of the containing the service of the fortest with the said settlement of the containing the service of the se fested becoming reservence for their responsibility, but nowadaya every brainy, busy mand didges jury duty if possible and so juries are per force to a frequently composed of the ignormant, the emotional the listless, the projudited and the cheap elements of the community, and the cheap elements of the community, compared ether of the indolent, unoccupied, who are merbidly anxious to serve or if a war element, that every honest man is a x as to keep out of the witness or jury box. In idustrate the folly of practically challed, ng the right of all competent men to sit on the jury, which we really a when we refuse men who have formed and expressed an opinion let an innocent man, whose innocence needed the II a stigation of intelligence and gool reason to establed it because superficially obscure a k himself whether he would wash to challenge a n an of well known prolaty, intellec, and in n an of well known probity, intellec, and in thigence, a man antreig capable of delivering a verdict on the law and the facts, and elect to be trad by that poor, I sthess indelent, sluggish creature who takes so little interest in the cave life of his common it; that he knows nothing of the everyday would, of which he is a part. An innocent man would prefer to be tred by an invice, but on the law in an invited in the contract of the contract tried by an upright judge than by an average judy, because he knows that if his innocence is obscure the judge will uncern it, because he is allove prejudice, above feebleness, above on tion, above ignorance and illiteracy, while the average jury is quite likely to be except oil their feet by an energetic and unscrupulous proc-cuting efficer who knows that juries, as a rule, are emotional and prejudiced rather than acute, notional and prejudiced rather than acute, in a case that needs nice powers of discrimina iten in our judgment, an observely innucent man would welcome a judge and fear an aver the jury while an obscurely gullty man would fear a just judge and welcome an average jury

The defenders of the jury system do not there that a ludge would be swaped by preputice or ducide incorrectly but that ign branch would think he did that the less the average man understands about a thing the more apt he is to maximat it, and the most ign trait are the B (at Drope to criticise and di nounce. There no al jaction, for ignorance to day denoun es the court as freely when the law does not please as it does when the jury finds an odous verd of on the facts. Ignorance is all that courts have to fer if they passed upon the facts as well as the law, and ignorance to-day when disastished with the administration of justice does not disan adious verdict that was due to the jury s decision or to the peremptory ru ing of the judge There are other reasons for the abolishment, or racical recasting of the jury system. In two dicial districts of hentucky the criminal liw is of no effect there is no protection for life a murderer is a privileged character because it is as impossible 'o get a jury to find a verdict against him as it would be to convict a white men at the bouth for shooting an insolent negro, unless the white man was a political or commercial carpet bagger. The jury system in a country like Frussia is fairly described to be the shield of the subject against the king and is therefore of estimable value. Where the 10 1 is are not really the government the private cit zen needs prolection against the star chain ber court of a kirg, but in America the people are the government, make the laws, and wnat the people dread to-day is not the tyranny of the government but the criminal classes, to

The present situation in Bulgaria ought to crease the hate which all liberty loving people feel for Russia The treaty of Barlin in 1878 divided a people, one in race and interests, into two provinces, Bulgaria and Enstern Roumelia, to please Bu sia Prince Alexander of Battenberg, a presumed pu pet of the czar, was placed on the throne of Bulgaria, and through his intolent, complacent acquiescence, or active and, Bulgaria was expected to be Bussian z=d but the assumed puppet proved h meelf a true irlince when a year upo the people of the diviced province tose, repudlated the treaty of Berlin, and by a bloodless revolution became one people before the carr could check it. The crar angrily a ruck Prince Alexander's name from the rolls of his army and secretly stir ed. up 'ervia to attack Bulgaria. Alexander proved himself a galiant and able soldier and proved himself a gallant and able soldier and drove the Servina army back home howl ug with pain and rage. Then Russia organized a con pract to depose Alexander and force his abdication. His people, who love him for his gallant soldiership, promptly rose in his rescue, seized the conspirators and recalled Alexander from his involuntary satie. The present startion finds Russia folied a second time in her furthers to Parsinguage Bulgaria and the starts. purpose to Russianize Bulgaria, and the czar is evidently ready to expel Alexander and forcit is place Bulgara under the rule of some through tool of his police, if he can get the assent of Austria and Germany. In other words, the test blot of burbarism in Europe was wit difficing its map forever in he sense of the extra tion of its absolution and the succession of constitutional monarchy. It is sometimes ned that in event of such a war the sympa f America ought to be with Russia Tecause to superor of Russia assured the president of the United States in July 18:1 of his lively solutude in the presence of the dangers wh h menace the American Linou, and his sine e wishes for the maintenance of that great wor Tis was said at a time when the government of both England and France give the South a cru sets 11 erty to get supplies and fuel in b h their lome and colonial ports. As to the in brance, there is no dispute, but this fact manner is such that the fact ma no reason for sympathy with Russia, since is clearly in the wrong now. In 1801 R4 had not a particle of sympathy for our ca to the owed England and Liance a bl grudge for the Crimean war and she wanted venge. She only saw a possible opportunity to cripple Logland and for this sort of se fish friendship there need be no feeling of gratitule The attitude of Russia in 1561 was welcome 1 is as the selfish aid of France was welcome in our Revolution France was then at war with England and of course was glad to strike hogiand by fornishing the revolted colonies with soldier ships and the snews of war, but we had Yan-kee wit enough not to let our gratitude for the timely selfishness of France tempt us into any entangling alliance with her in the great French rev lution. France allowed no senti-mental memory of Lafayette to restrain her from fering the "alabama" an asylum and a recruiting station. She was as bad as England, the was woise, for a very large portion of the English common people and great middle classes sympathized with our cause Cobdan Bright, Mill, Forster, Argyli, Milner Gubson, Sir George Lewis, Charles Villiers and Tom Hughes were all our warm friends.
